PUBLIC ALERTS PORTAL

TERMS OF SERVICE

The service is supplied by Regola Srl¹ (hereafter "Supplier") and relates to the use of nowtice² on the Public Alerts Portal (hereafter "Portal").

The service is provided through a website developed and managed by Regola Srl where all official communications of public interest (called "Alerts") made by the Organizations that use the nowtice³ service are published.

On the portal, any web user can also sign up and decide for which alerts to directly receive a notification (via SMS, e-mail or voice call).

Territorial service and coverage

The service offered to all web users, with particular reference to Italian citizens, consists of:

1. being able to view all the alerts published by the Organisations that use the nowtice alert system;
2. registering, via e-mail, on a database that allows organisations using the nowtice system to send communications with reference to specific categories.

The service is offered mainly throughout Italy, but foreign Organisations may decide to use the nowtice system and therefore publish alerts on the portal.

How to register

Any Web User can register for free on the Portal by accessing the Website <https://publicalerts.nowtice.it>.

Each Organisation may also create a direct registration link available on its website, automatically allowing the user to subscribe to the channels provided.

Registration can also occur through a Google, Facebook or Twitter account, therefore without having to memorize new dedicated access credentials.

Advantages of registration

Registration on the portal guarantees the web user to be contacted directly by the Organisations of his interest and on the topics of his interest (via Email, SMS or voice calls, depending on the user preference indicated).

¹ More information on the Regola Srl company is available on the Website <https://regola.it>.

² More information on the nowtice service is available on the Website <https://nowtice.it>.
